

Dr. Lynn Wiley

Ai Board of Directors

Professor
Shenandoah University Department of Psychology

Lynn joined the Board of Directors at Access Independence, Inc. (Ai) in December 2020. As an educator, she has provided instruction and professional development throughout the state, on content related to early childhood special education, evidence-based instructional practices, traumatic brain injury, social-emotional development, and educational technology. She currently teaches at Shenandoah University in the Department of Psychology.

Lynn cares deeply about ensuring access and equal opportunities for all individuals, particularly those with disabilities.

Lynn received a Ph.D. from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign in Speech & Hearing Science, Language Acquisition, an M.A. from Gallaudet University, Washington, DC, in Education of the Hearing Impaired, and a B.S. from Appalachian State University, Boone, NC in Special Education.